Thank you for hiring me for your Website, for checking error/potential flaws which needs to be addressed for getting AdSense approval. I have identified several potential issues which can be barrier in your approval. Below are issues and in last recommendations:

1. Page Speed Issue

The websites which loads slow are less likely to get a top rank position in Google and also user don't like or want to come again to that site, and hence Google won't approve the site which will also cause low content error. Your website load time is very poor as per Google LCP and fcp should be below 2.5s.

2. Header and Footer

1. Header

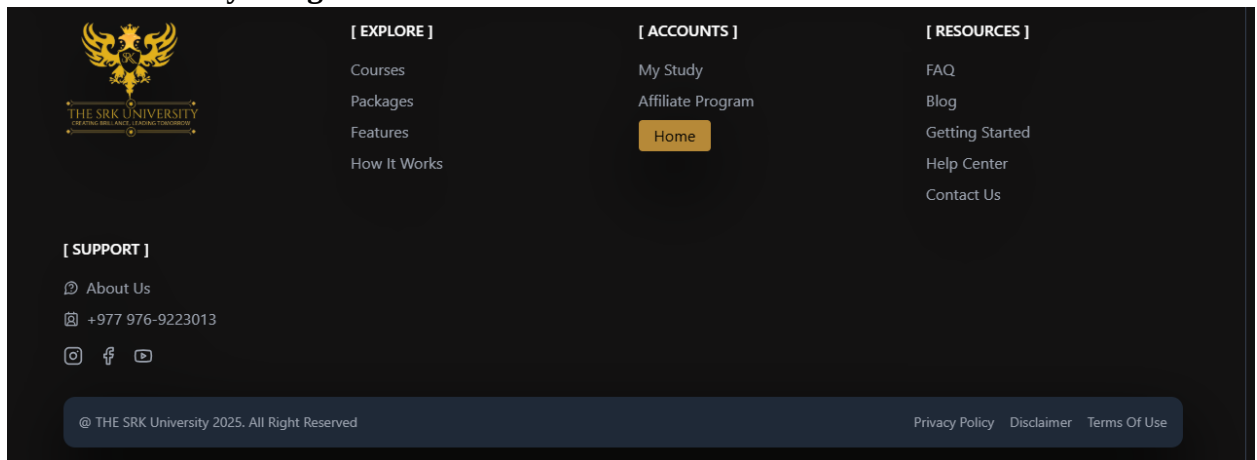

Your website header was checked it was having all important pages only alignment needs to be fixed):

2. Footer

The footer is crucial for Google AdSense approval because it typically contains essential information such as contact details, privacy policies, disclaimers, and site navigation links. These elements help establish site credibility, ensure legal compliance, and enhance user experience, aligning with AdSense's requirements for a professional and trustworthy website.

Your website footer is missing home from footer section which are recommended by Google:

3. Move to top button

Google wants to ensure the website which is getting approval is user friendly so it measures every factor which is important for user and while analyzing your site, it was noticed you are not using move to top button. Which is important navigation factor in a website:

4. About us page

An "About Us" page is essential for any website as it provides visitors with insight into the site's purpose, values, and the people behind it. It helps establish credibility and trust by sharing the story, mission, and vision of the business or individual. This page allows users to connect on a personal level, fostering a sense of community and loyalty. A well-crafted "About Us" page differentiates your brand from competitors and can effectively communicate the unique aspects that make your website or business special. Your website have about us page.

5. Contact us Page

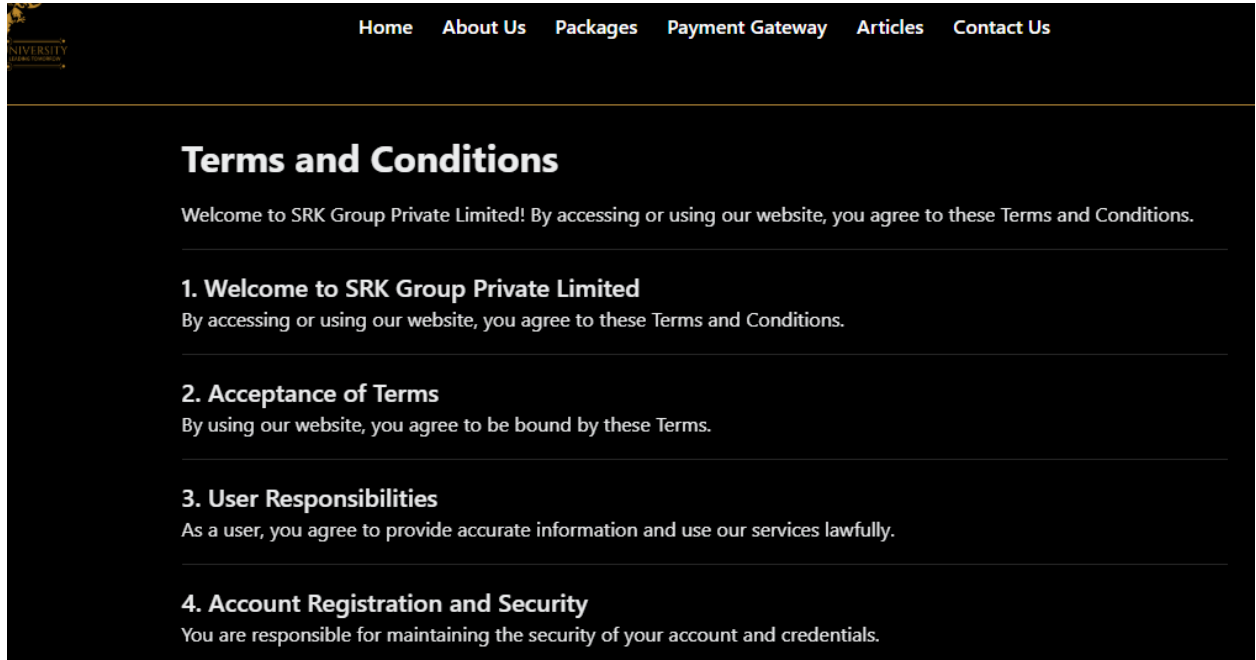

A "Contact Us" page is vital for facilitating communication between you and your audience. It provides visitors with an easy way to reach out with questions, feedback, or inquiries, which can enhance customer service and satisfaction. This page also demonstrates your openness and accessibility, reinforcing trust and reliability. By offering multiple contact options, such as email, phone, or a contact form, you ensure that users can conveniently get in touch, helping to build stronger relationships and potentially increasing engagement and conversions which Google wants from a website. Your website have contact us page.

6. Terms and Condition

Your website have terms and condition page, which is necessary policy page as per google publisher requirements, but the content on it was not meeting the google content criteria:

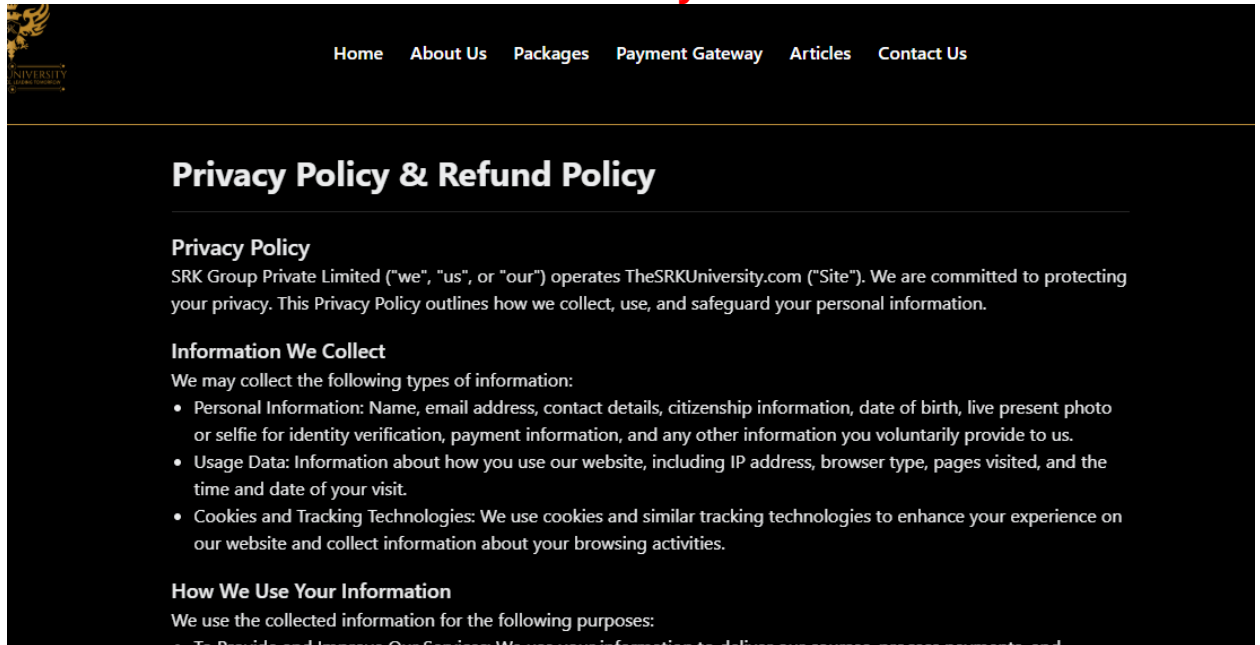

7. Privacy policy

Google focuses mainly on user-friendliness, and authenticity of a website. Privacy policy is what google wants to see on every website because they care about user security. Your website privacy policy page content was not meeting Google requirement:

8. Prohibited keywords

When seeking approval for Google AdSense, it's crucial to be aware of the types of content and keywords that are prohibited. Google maintains strict policies to ensure that ads are placed on high-quality, safe, and appropriate websites. Violating these policies can result in the denial of AdSense approval or the suspension of an existing account. I have manually checked your website for any prohibited or policy-violation content:

9. Minimum Content

As per google program policies at least 30 quality posts should be indexed, whereas you are meeting that criteria.

10. AI content

Achieving Google AdSense approval has become increasingly difficult for publishers relying heavily on automated text, as Google's automated review systems strictly enforce Programmatic Misrepresentation and Helpful Content guidelines. While Google does not explicitly ban AI-generated content, it aggressively penalizes material that lacks E-E-A-T (Experience, Expertise, Authoritativeness, and Trustworthiness). Automated articles often suffer from "hallucinations," repetitive phrasing, and a lack of original analysis, leading the AdSense review team to reject the site under the umbrella of "Low-Value Content." To secure approval, a website must demonstrate a clear human editorial layer; content must be substantially manualized, fact-checked, and enriched with unique insights, data, or personal

Digital marketing operates in an environment where almost every action can be measured. Every website visit, every click, every scroll, every form submission, and every purchase generates data that describes exactly what happened, when it happened, and who caused it. This data is what makes digital marketing fundamentally different from broadcast media: rather than estimating audience responses, you can observe them directly. The challenge is not collecting data but interpreting it correctly. More data creates more opportunities for misinterpretation. Understanding what each metric actually measures, how it relates to your goals, and what conclusions can and cannot be drawn from it is the essential skill in digital marketing analytics.

Colour management is one of the most technically demanding aspects of professional print production, and it is an area where errors are expensive. A document that looks correct on screen but prints with significantly different colours represents rework costs, damaged client relationships, and wasted materials. Understanding InDesign's colour management system, and how to use it correctly for different output types, is a foundational professional skill.

The ability to present creative work effectively is one of the most underrated professional skills in the design industry. A designer who cannot communicate the thinking behind their work is limited in what they can achieve professionally. Concepts that are sound and well-executed but poorly presented are rejected in favour of weaker work that was better explained. Clients who do not understand why a design looks the way it does make arbitrary changes that damage it. The ability to present is not separate from the ability to design. It is an essential part of the professional capability.

Text animation in Adobe After Effects ranges from simple fade-in titles to complex kinetic typography where individual characters move, scale, and rotate according to custom animation logic. The After Effects text system is built around the Text Animator, a specialised animation system that exists within text layers.

Transitions are the moments between shots. A cut is the most fundamental transition, the abrupt replacement of one image with another, and it is the default choice in virtually every form of video editing because it most closely resembles the way the human eye moves between things. Every other type of transition, dissolves, wipes, slides, and more, draws attention to itself in a way that the cut does not. This is not necessarily a flaw. Used with intention, a non-cut transition communicates something specific about the relationship between two shots or about the emotional tone of a sequence. Used without intention, it appears amateurish. Understanding transitions requires understanding not only their mechanics but their communicative logic.

Pay per click advertising, commonly referred to as PPC, is a digital advertising model where advertisers pay a fee each time their advertisement is clicked. Unlike display advertising where payment is typically based on impressions, the number of times the advertisement is shown, PPC aligns cost directly with user action, making it highly accountable. The most widely used PPC platform is Google Ads, which places advertisements in Google search results and across the Google Display Network. Other significant PPC platforms include Microsoft Advertising for Bing search, and the advertising systems on social media platforms such as Facebook, Instagram, and LinkedIn. Each platform has different targeting capabilities and audience characteristics, making platform selection an important strategic decision.

The Filters menu in Adobe Photoshop contains hundreds of effects that alter the visual appearance of images in an enormous range of ways. Some filters correct technical problems: sharpening brings back definition lost in capture or compression, Lens Correction removes distortion and vignetting introduced by camera lenses, and Reduce Noise addresses colour noise from high ISO shooting. Others create stylistic effects: Gaussian Blur softens images for creative or practical purposes, the Oil Paint filter renders photographs in a painterly style, and the Liquify filter warps the geometry of an image. Understanding the most important filters, their parameters, and when each is appropriate gives a Photoshop user a

Your website has 18 authority whereas for credibility on Google you should have increase your domain authority so you need to increase your website backlinks. A site with less authority looks like a "Made-for-AdSense" (MFA) site something created just to click ads. Google hates these.

Adsense approval also depends on traffic, so the more traffic your website the more chances of approval you have.
